A passing grade on each assignment is required to pass the course. Irregular attendance will influence final grades (negatively) in borderline cases.

A note on grades: In recent years some students seem to have acquired the belief that merely turning in the required course work assures them a grade of B. In this course I consciously attempt to break with the current trend of rampant grade inflation. This means that I use the full range of the grading scale, A to F. B's are reserved for good work; merely satisfactory work receives a C. Since A designates excellence ("standing out"), it's unlikely that, say, 40% of the class will receive a final grade of A. On the other hand, I don't curve grades, so if half the class does excellent work, half the class will receive an A.

All assignments in this class are to be completed in accordance with the Barnard Honor Code. Columbia students commit themselves to the Honor Code upon registering for a Barnard course. The codes says, in part: "We consider it dishonest to ask for, give, or receive help in examinations or quizzes, to use any papers or books not authorized by the instructor in examinations, or to present . . . written work that is not entirely our own, unless otherwise approved by the instructor."

The penalty for plagiarism will be failure of the course in all cases. If you are in any doubt as to what constitutes the illegitimate use of another person's work, don't hesitate to consult me.

E-mail: fneuhouser@barnard.edu. You may contact me by e-mail when you have a question that can be answered in a sentence or two (e.g., about course requirements or to set up an appointment). E-mail is a great convenience, but it can't replace philosophical conversation in person. When you have philosophical questions, please come to my office hours or make an appointment with me. I'm happy to meet you as often as you like, but I won't carry on philosophical exchanges via e-mail. Don't send me copies of your papers as e-mail attachments. Only hard (paper) copies will be accepted.

Students who need disability-related accommodations should both see me and stop by the Office of Disability Services as soon as possible.
